

SOE Ethics Requirement

EdS in Educational Curriculum and Instruction

Each year, the School of Education (SOE) has approximately 3 - 5 students who enroll in Education Specialists degree programs. These programs focus on the area of teaching in which the student is or has been engaged and already has a Master's in Education Degree – Science, Math, History, Literacy, etc. Thus, their Program of Studies are completely individualized so there is no common course, and there is not a core of students for us to devise a course for these students.

To meet the ethics requirement for these students, they will complete the SOE on-line modules on the Graduate Honor System, citations, and reporting. For the professional ethics section of the requirement, each advisor will work with the student to review and discuss at least one of the ethical codes relevant to the specialty area, and discuss with the student one ethical dilemma that the student experienced as a teacher or fears facing in the future before signing the POS.
